KULLIHOMA - Hundreds of Chickasaws and guests from across the country will meet to celebrate Chickasaw culture and tradition at the Seventh Annual Chi Ka Sha Reunion June 24-27 at Kullihoma Stomp Ground.

Chickasaw stickball players have been practicing for the rematch with the Choctaw stickball team, which will be one of the featured events at this year's reunion. Other Chickasaw games will also be featured, as well as a horseshoe tournament and an archery tournament.

A traditional meal will be served at noon Saturday. Hot dogs and hamburgers will be served 6 p.m. Friday, and breakfast will be available Sunday morning.

There will also be a variety of demonstrations of Chickasaw culture from stomp dance to ballstick making to language.

"Chi Ka Sha reunion is a great time of fellowship and a people."

Children are encouraged to bring their own turtles for the Loksi races, which will begin 11 a.m. Saturday. There will be races for ages 12 and under and 13 and older.

Chickasaw Nation Dance Troupe members will provide stomp dance instruction and demonstrations. Stomp dances will begin at 10:30 p.m. Friday, and midnight Saturday. There will also be a social dance from eight to 10 p.m. Saturday.

Other cultural demonstrations include story-telling, cooking, ribbon shirt making, stomp dance dress making, bow making, flute making, finger weaving, basket weaving, beadwork and various other crafts.

Overnight camping spaces are available, including tent spaces and a limited number of RV hook ups. Generators may be used only in designated areas.

To reach Kullihoma, travel to the Kullihoma sign seven miles northeast of Ada on State Highway 1, then three miles east and one mile south.

Gov. Anoatubby selected for Oklahoma Hall of Fame

Gov. Bill Anoatubby

Chickasaw Nation Governor Bill Anoatubby is one of eight Oklahomans selected for induction into the Oklahoma Hall of Fame in 2004, Clayton I. Bennett, Chairman of the Board of the Oklahoma Heritage Association, has announced.

Other honorees include Molly Shi Boren, Norman; Frederick F. Drummond, Pawhuska; William E. Durrett, Oklahoma City; Christine Gaylord Everest, Oklahoma City; Leona Mitchell, Enid; R. James Woolsey, McLean, Virginia; and Wiley Post (deceased), Maysville.

"It is a great honor to be chosen as part of this distinguished class of inductees," said Gov. Anoatubby. "It is also very humbling to be inducted into this Hall which includes individuals such as Will Rogers, T. Boone Pickens, and Robert S. Kerr, as well as fellow Chickasaws

Rena Duncan, right, and Lynie Richardson help young people with beadwork at last year's Chi Ka Sha reunion.

William Paul, Te Ata Fisher and Douglas H. Johnston, and so many others who have made such significant contributions to this state."

Gov. Anoatubby was first elected governor of the Chickasaw Nation in 1987, and since that time the Chickasaw Nation has grown from 250 employees with an $11 million annual budget to nearly 4,500 employees and an annual budget of almost $300 million.

The Chickasaw people have also made great advances in economic development, housing, health care, education, heritage preservation and a variety of other areas.

Under Gov. Anoatubby's leadership the tribe has increased and diversified its business holdings. The Chickasaw Nation owns and operates almost three dozen businesses, and profits have grown from tens of thousands of dollars per year to tens of millions.

Diversification plans have led to a variety of successful business ventures including travel plazas, gaming centers, smoke shops, KADA Radio, Bedre' Chocolates, Bank2, Chickasaw Lodge, McSwain Theatre and Chickasaw Nation Industries.

A portion of the profits from tribal businesses helps fund tribal programs and services, including health care, senior services and education, among others.

Housing services have also enjoyed great success, with home ownership programs a high priority. Hundreds of low income Native American families have received assistance in purchasing their own homes through the mutual help program.

Another success is the Chuka Chukmasi home loan program, which has provided more than $19.3 million in home loans to 218 families in a dozen states. The program was recently named one of 16 finalists for Harvard University's American Indian Tribal Governance Awards.

The tribe also offers low income home ownership programs, rental assistance, home maintenance and repair, low income home energy assistance, emergency housing assistance and a retirement village.

Health care services have seen tremendous growth since the tribe assumed authority for health care in 1994. A number of new services and facilities have helped bring more complete health care services closer to people in all areas of the Chickasaw Nation.

(A) LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE REPORT by Chairman Steve Woods

Permanent Resolution Number 21-016, Amendments to Section 18-110 and Section 10-202 of the Chickasaw Nation Code, (Development Budget)

This resolution amends Section 18-110 of the code by deleting one subsection which defines and delineates what was once termed the "Capital Improvements Plan." A new subsection is added to Section 10-202 which defines and delineates a Development Budget, which will take the place of the Capital Improvements Plan, and will be included in the portion of the Code which deals with the tribe's budget process. The amendments include details as to what is required for reporting to the Legislature on all projects involving capital improvements and provides for monthly reporting from the Governor to the Legislature on financial expenditures for all such projects.

A motion was made by Mr. Woods to Approve PR21-016. The motion was seconded by Dr. Goforth Parker.

A motion was made by Mr. Seawright to amend Section 10-202, B.3. to read, "Total expenditures for any single project may not exceed more than 10% over the budgeted amount of that project; however, should it become apparent that completion of the project shall exceed such amount, the Governor shall submit a revised project budget to the Legislature for approval." The motion was seconded by Mr. Tim Colbert.

Members voting yes:

Beth Alexander, Melvin Burris, Scott Colbert, Tim Colbert, Holly Easterling, Mary Jo Green, Donna Hartman, Dean McManus, Judy Goforth Parker, Wanda Blackwood Scott, Wilson Seawright, Steve Woods, Linda Briggs.

13 yes votes

The motion to approve the amendment carried unanimously.

Mr. Woods concluded his report.

(B) FINANCE COMMITTEE REPORT by Chairman Scott Colbert

Mr. Scott Colbert read the dates for the budget hearings in June and concluded his report.

(C) HUMAN RESOURCES COMMITTEE REPORT by Chairman Dean McManus

General Resolution Number 21-046, Authorization for Chickasaw Nation Health System to Apply for the U.S. Indian Health Service Native American Research Center for Health (NARCH) Grant

This resolution approves the Chickasaw Nation Health System (CNHS) to apply for an IHS-NARCH grant. The Chickasaw Nation Health System would partner with the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center (OUHSC) to conduct tribally driven research projects, and develop the capacity of student and faculty researchers. The grant award amount is up to $800,000 for four years. At least 30% of the total award is required to remain with the grantee. The CNHS would approve prospective research projects through the tribal Research Review Committee, and collaborate with OUHSC and other tribes to facilitate and complete such projects. Individual projects would be managed via subcontracts with OUHSC and other tribes.

A motion was made by Mrs. McManus to approve GR21-046. The motion was seconded by Dr. Goforth Parker.

Members voting yes:

Beth Alexander, Melvin Burris, Scott Colbert, Tim Colbert, Holly Easterling, Mary Jo Green, Donna Hartman, Dean McManus, Judy Goforth Parker, Wanda Blackwood Scott, Wilson Seawright, Steve Woods, Linda Briggs

13 yes votes

The motion to approve GR21-046 carried unanimously.

General Resolution Number 21-048, Approval of Application for Funding – Administration for Native Americans Social and Economic Development Strategies Program

This resolution approves the Chickasaw Nation's application for funding to the Administration for Native Americans, Administration for Children and Families, Social and Economic Development Strategies Projects Program, for the establishment of the Chepota Apisa Chi Li program, an initiative to recruit and retain Native American foster/adoptive families. The application requests funding in the amount of $480,000 over the three-year project. The tribe's required 20% match will be provided through in-kind and tribal funds.

A motion was made by Mrs. McManus to approve GR21-048. The motion was seconded by Mr. Seawright.

Mrs. McManus explained the program applying for this grant requested the word "adoptive" be removed in the resolution and the required amount of 20% be amended to 25%.

A motion was made by Mrs. McManus to approve GR21-048 as amended. The motion was seconded by Mr. Seawright.

Our most precious resource

Chickasaw graduates begin leadership path

By BILL ANOATUBBY
Governor
Chickasaw Nation

In last month's edition of the Chickasaw Times, there were 19 very special pages featuring the Chickasaw Nation's most precious resource. Contained in those pages were the photographs and biographies of graduating Chickasaw high school seniors from across the country.

Each year as I read about our Chickasaw graduates I am impressed with the scholarship, the achievement and the diversity of interest among our young people. How rich we are to have such outstanding young Chickasaws entering the world as adults!

These very special high school graduates are so young, so bright and ready to begin their journey into career, family and life. They represent not only their own individual futures, but also the future of our tribe. We are blessed to have these young Chickasaws preparing themselves to be our new leaders.

I sincerely hope you also dedicated some time to read about these seniors. The quality of their young lives is truly astounding.

We can proudly claim Chickasaw students who are members of the National Honor Society; Chickasaws who are among the prestigious National Merit Scholars; and Chickasaws selected for scholarships to our country's finest colleges and universities.

There are young Chickasaws who have excelled at sports, music, the arts and academics. Many of these young people are leaders of their schools, setting the pace for entire student bodies. It is apparent a number of these young people will some day assume leadership roles with our tribe.

The Chickasaw Nation has enjoyed tremendous growth and prosperity over the past decade. Innovative new programs and services designed to bring out the very best in the Chickasaw people have been instituted. Those initiatives include greatly expanded education, scholarship and personal growth programs for our young people.

Seeing the photographs of these Chickasaw students and reading their information reinforces the fact that our tribe is doing the right things for our children. We are focusing on those important elements that help our young people achieve great things, and set them on the path of success.

For all we have accomplished – and plan to accomplish – there can be no greater asset to our tribe than the young people honored on those 19 pages. We are all so very pleased and we congratulate our Chickasaw high school seniors on their accomplishments and the beginning of their adult lives.

Chickasaw graduates, we offer our prayers and sincere best wishes as you embark on your new journey. We look forward to welcoming you as Chickasaw adults, ready to become involved in your tribe and help pave the way for a wonderful future together.

Chickasaws gather at Kullihoma for Elders Day

KULLIHOMA - Dozens of Chickasaw elders were joined by Head Start students, youth and members of the tribal Cultural Resources Department as they gathered for Elders Day at Kullihome Stomp Dance Grounds, Friday May 7 to share stories, food, fun and fellowship.

Lt. Gov. Jefferson Keel, who delivered the welcome address, spoke of the importance of preserving Chickasaw heritage and culture for future generations, as did Tim Harjo from the Cultural Resources Department, and several elders.

The crowd laughed heartily as Earnest Guess from Purcell, Okla., told how his five-year-old grandson said recently that their family couldn't be Indian "because Indians live in teepees in the woods and we live in town."

"That's kind of funny," said Mr. Guess, "But we have to make sure these young people know being Chickasaw is not about where you live, it's about who you are."

Kennedy Brown, who rang the bell to open the ceremonies, spoke about the history of Kullihoma, harking back to the time when a number of Chickasaw families lived in the area.

Several Chickasaw youth showed their respect for the elders by serving them a traditional lunch of pashofa, pork, fried potatoes, beans and grape dumplings.

After lunch, Tim Harjo took the elders on a guided tour of the winter, summer and mountain houses on the Kullihoma grounds.

The Chickasaw Honor Guard began the day by posting the colors, the Chickasaw Princesses presented the Lord's Prayer in sign language, JoAnn Ellis gave the invocation, Head Start students counted in Chickasaw and Lee Frazier gave the benediction to close the ceremonies.

Contributed by Tony Choate, tribal media relations.

Dusty Newport was one of the youth serving lunch during the May 7 Elder's Day celebration at Kullihoma Chickasaw Princess Cassie McDonald signs the Lord's Prayer.

Guests were invited to share their thoughts at Elder's Day.

Many elders and youth enjoyed the first Elder's Day hosted by the tribal Cultural Resources Department. Visiting with others, listening to the Ada Head Start students count in Chickasaw, sing songs and listening to Tim Harjo playing the flute were several of the day's many highlights.

Come commune with your tribal family at Chi Ka Sha!

Linda Briggs
Chairman
Chickasaw Tribal Legislature

Happy Summertime to all of you! It is a season of family togetherness, traveling (although not too far at the present time with the current price of fuel!) and beginning of new projects. In my family we are busy preparing for the family reunion with "park clean-up" weekends and sometimes I think the getting together, getting ready comes very close to being as much fun as the actual reunion.

Chi Ka Sha Reunion is to be June 24 - 27 at Kullihoma and that is our tribal-family reunion. I hope your calendars are marked and that we will see a great number of you there. It is so great to see the arbors with the skilled craftsmen showing how our ancestors created some of our present day works of art, to see the stickball games which pretty much seem to go on continuously and of course the houses built the ways our ancestors built them. It is such a wonderful beautiful location with all the trees. Come!!

As for the beginning of new projects - we have them going on all over the Nation. The groundbreaking for the Wellness Center in Ardmore was May 28. The Wellness Center in Ada is very nearly completed and is truly wonderful. We still are marveling at the new Diabetes Center and show it to visitors with great pride as well as great thankfulness as we offer greater care to our diabetic citizens. And almost all of us have members of our families who suffer the dreadful disease.

The businesses continue to prosper and the revenues from the businesses continue to be the source of the outstanding services we as a tribe are able to offer our citizens. Our tribe has no blood quantum limit for service which means that as long as we can trace our heritage to obtain a CDIB card all the services are available to us. This translates to a very great number of people benefiting from the Nation's success. We are spending a great deal of time in discussion with ideas coming forth on how to help and provide services to tribal members who do not live inside the Nation. This is a great challenge but one to which we are dedicated.

Travel safely and have a great summertime. God bless all of you.

Small lifestyle changes have big impacts for diabetics

Dr. Judy Goforth Parker
Chickasaw Tribal Legislator

Diabetes is in the news in Indian country, and I believe that our tribes and tribal members are aware of the devastating effects of diabetes and that we can turn this around if we choose to. I have not shared with you recently concerning diabetes, my favorite topic. My recent attendance at a meeting with Indian Health Service (IHS) and Oklahoma health care providers prompted me once again to talk about diabetes prevention and the prevention of the devastating complications of diabetes.

This summer would be a wonderful time to take control of a part of your life by increasing your activity and making healthier food choices. We are finding out those small changes in your life cause big results. Just adding 1,000 additional steps in daily walking can reduce your risk factors for developing diabetes. There are fears that our generation will be one of the first in which children will have shorter life spans than did their parents. This can be prevented.

The conference sponsored by IHS focused on the treatment that is being given in our Oklahoma IHS, tribal and urban facilities. We listened to programs on weight reduction, increased activity, nutrition programs for children, and many other topics. Topics such as "Metabolic Syndrome" and cardiovascular disease were discussed. One assessment tool I particularly liked is called "abdominal circumference." Our Oklahoma IHS Diabetic Consultant agreed that abdominal circumference was an excellent assessment tool. The waist measurement for a woman should be no greater than 36 inches, and a man should be no greater than 40 inches. Since many patients do not like to be measured, she has little ropes that she hands out to patients to measure their own waist. We were all given either a pink or blue rope. I encourage you to be brave and measure your own waist. If you are larger than you should be, come in to see the nutritionist and exercise physiologist and do something about it. We have to take the future of our own health in our hands and feet: "move it" is the motto.

I would be more than happy to answer questions that you may have about diabetes. As the Oklahoma representative for the Tribal Leaders Diabetes Committee, I can better represent you when I hear from you. You can e-mail me at jparker@mail-clerk.ecok.edu. Please label the e-mail with something related to diabetes so I will recognize your e-mail. I look forward to hearing from you. Since I am trying to practice what I preach, I am on my way to the tribal exercise facility. Hope to see you there!

Have a safe and happy summer.

Budget hearings set for June

The Chickasaw Nation Legislative Finance Committee will conduct public hearings regarding the Consolidated Tribal Budget for 2005 during the month of June. Copies of the proposed budget are available for review at the Legislative Office in Ada. All meetings will be at 6:30 p.m. at the following locations and dates: Tuesday, June 8 - David Stout Building, 520 Arlington, Ada, Okla.; Thursday, June 10 - O.S.U. Extension Office, 4000 West Highway 7, Davis, Okla.; Thursday, June 17 - Pauls Valley Chamber of Commerce Building, 112 East Paul, Pauls Valley, Okla.; and Thursday, June 24 - Chickasaw Nation Community Center, 1203 West Ray Branum Road, Tishomingo, Okla.

Any Chickasaw citizen may address the Finance Committee at the hearings, provided the citizen may speak only if he has notified the Committee Chairman in writing of his desire to speak and provides an agenda within five days of the meeting. A citizen may speak for up to 10 minutes. Chickasaw citizens may also present written comments, recommendations or information at those meetings, provided, those written comments are presented to the Finance Committee Chairman prior to the hearings commencement.

The meetings shall be conducted in accordance with Title 10, Section 10-205, and following, of the Chickasaw Nation Code. The Chickasaw Nation Code can be located at www.chickasaw.net.

Head Start kids moving on; lots of summer camps

Mary Jo Green

Chickasaw Tribal Legislature

Greetings from Legislator Mary Jo Green, Seat 5 Pontotoc District and Chairman of the Health Care Committee! The Health Care Committee met on May 10 and received an informative report from Bill Lance, Health Systems Administrator. Much information regarding our health care was discussed as well as changes planned for future health care.

The patient load at Carl Albert last year was 327,500 and is expected to increase this year as a result of extended services. May 10 through 14 was National Hospital Week and it was observed at Carl Albert Hospital. Third-party reimbursements were up for the month of April this year.

A question was asked regarding the poor condition of the emergency room parking lot. Mr. Lance reported that the parking lot is owned by the Abbott-Miller social services complex next to the hospital. We are in negotiations to procure the complex and repaving the parking lot will be high on the list of improvements. The planned prescription center will probably be located on the Abbott-Miller property.

The new Healthy Lifestyle center on Seabrook Road in Ada is slated for a grand opening in June. The Carter Seminary property in Ardmore is being considered for a similar facility, either to use the existing building or new construction. The Carter Seminary property is also being considered for a food distribution center.

Dr. Denny Parton reports for work at the Ardmore clinic on June 6. We look forward to giving Dr. Parton a warm welcome.

Housing Division has relocated numerous offices to a location on North Broadway in Ada. Housing purchased the old Branscum Lumber building last year and is planning to expand those facilities. Housing is also planning to implement automated equipment that may someday also be used by the Health System.

I also serve on the Education Committee and wish to report that computer classes for seniors will resume in July. Numerous camps for youth including Golf, Space and Entrepreneur Camps are scheduled for the month of June.

Graduates from Ada Head Start numbered 47. Graduation was held in the second week of May. I visited and enjoyed reading Indian stories to the Head Start group on several occasions. The teachers and I will miss their smiling faces but wish them all good success for next school term wherever they may attend.

It was also reported that 54 schools now participate in Governor's program to promote good grades. The Ada school system received an award for outstanding achievement for the JOM program.

As always, I invite any comments or questions you may have. Please contact me through the address and telephone number listed elsewhere in this and every issue of the Chickasaw Times. I look forward to speaking with you!

May God bless our health care providers and also our Indian people that they may be in better health in the coming year. Thank you.

Supreme Court Chief Justice

May has come and gone and the Chickasaw Nation Supreme Court is still as busy as ever. We have continued to visit Community Councils this month and have enjoyed meeting all of the wonderful council members.

We were well received by the Sulphur/Davis Community Council on April 19, 2004 and we had a great time at the Duncan Community Council meeting, May 3, 2004 and the OKC Metro Community Council meeting on May 4, 2004. We had the opportunity to update the council members on the Judicial Department plans for the future as well as inform them of all the changes that had taken place in the last six months. Justice Smith shared our vision of providing a Peacemaking Court that would reintroduce Chickasaw culture and traditions into the courts. We have met many wonderful people along the way and have had several Chickasaw citizens interested in becoming Peacemakers. Bedre Chocolates, in the form of our judicial seal, were enjoyed by all of the attendees during the "Question and Answer" period that followed.

The Supreme Court Justices are especially excited about the opportunity to visit our Colorado Community Council members on June 5, 2004. The Supreme Court Justices are scheduled to travel with three Legislators who will also be sharing the wonderful news of our great Chickasaw Nation.

As the Supreme Court and the District Court continue to grow, so do the needs of the Chickasaw citizens. We addressed this need by hiring another Court Advocate, Darlene Cheadle. She has been updating court forms to make them easier for citizens to use and understand. Darlene is also accepting appointments to assist citizens with the paperwork and procedures associated with possible legal actions. Darlene is the wife of Legislative Counsel, Robert Cheadle and a licensed attorney in California. We are delighted to have Darlene with us as a Court Advocate.

In an effort to share the news of the Chickasaw Nation Judicial branch, we have been updating our webpage. It is our hope that all of you will take a few minutes to log on and take a look at what we have done. If you have any suggestions on what you would like to see on the webpage, call the Supreme Court Office at: (580) 235-0281.

One of the Bureau of Justice Affairs grant requirements is to inform the Chickasaw citizens of the services provided by the Supreme Court and the District Court. One way we have elected to spread the wonderful news is by having a brochure printed. This brochure will give you a brief look at the employees and services offered by the Supreme Court and the District Court. The phone numbers and addresses for both courts will be listed in the brochure.

Justice Smith is scheduled to attend a conference, "Essential Skills for Tribal Appellate Judges" June 6 -10, 2004. Although attendance at many of these conferences is required for compliance with our grants, they offer valuable information that continues to aid us in our courts.

We are making record stride to assist every Native American in need of legal services. We are truly encouraged by the overwhelming support from the Chickasaw Nation Citizens. We are grateful for the opportunity to serve you and be with you on this incredible journey.

Sammy's story

A boy learns his Indian heritage by doing

By JUSTICE BARBARA SMITH

As we travel to Councils around the Nation to talk with citizens about the Judicial Departments' charge of bringing our culture back into the judicial system to resolve conflicts, we talk of the Peacemaking Court as a mechanism for helping conflicted parties and those around them find peace. In our journey, I certainly learn much more from the people of the Councils than I could ever hope to offer. They have given us insight into their wisdom, history and experience. Our hope is that the Peacemakers will use a cultural base to help parties find peaceful resolutions.

The evolution of our Peacemaking Court will have many forms. Currently, we have seven volunteers to participate in the Peacemaking process. As we begin the Peacemaking journey, I had the opportunity to see the cultural torch pass to the young. Sammy showed me the reality of our hopes.

I write this story about my 11-year-old nephew, Samuel Harrison Smith, (Sammy) descendant of Winchester Colbert. I write this wondering if I have the wisdom to know what Samuel inherently knew and appreciated as we left the Oklahoma City Metro Community Council Monday night flute-making gathering. Let me tell his story for him.

In April, as all elementary schools in Oklahoma celebrate "89ers Day," Sammy entered an essay contest at his school, McKinley Elementary in Norman, Oklahoma. The University of Oklahoma, Rufnek Oklahoma Landrun Essay Contest is open to all Elementary Schools in Norman. Sammy's mom and I helped Sammy write his essay from the Indians' perspective of the Oklahoma Landrun.

As most Oklahomans know, the schools' historical presentation of the landrun is predominantly from the invading settlers' perspective and is celebrated as a beginning for Oklahoma. Whereas, Sammy wanted to tell the story from his ancestors' view. Sammy's story was about the Indians who had given up so much and moved to this territory with promises of land forever. Sammy's essay was not a story of the celebration of accomplishments, but of loss and broken promises. So, Sammy's mom told Sammy he would probably not be in the running for winning the contest. Having learned of his history from home, he wanted to tell his story anyway.

So, when they called his name as the 2nd place winner, he was elated. Coach Kelvin Sampson of the University of Oklahoma was there to give out the trophies and the Rufneks were there to give him a ride in the O.U. Sooner Schooner. Maybe not in the spirit of his essay, but clearly a thrill for him as a Sooner fan. It's tough to be a purist in Norman. Yet, receiving accolades for his essay, Sammy has gained a new pride in his Chickasaw history and culture. So, a new opportunity to make flutes with a Chickasaw Council was too good to pass up. Sammy didn't hesitate and we were off.

In early May I was a guest speaker at the Oklahoma City Metro Chickasaw Community Council. It was there that I learned of the flute makers of the Council. They meet every Monday and Wednesday evening to work on hand-carving flutes. Mark Bomboy is, as Sammy refers to him, the "master flute maker, teacher and musician."

So, the following Monday evening, Sammy and I went to learn how to make our flutes. Sammy was so excited. I wasn't sure what to expect or if Sammy would have the attention span necessary to join the group. After all, the flute makers there were all adults. When I had asked if we could come, they, also, were unsure of whether an 11-year-old could handle the tools. Sometimes we adults worry too much. Kids are much more adaptable than we adults. It was a wonderful evening. We have been several evenings and are still working on our flute and will continue to go.

I knew Sammy would love carving the flute. He loves woodworking and creating things. However, as we headed home that first evening, Sammy turned to me and said "I love those people. I love their stories. They are so calm. They listen to each other and they listen to me. It was as if they passed 'the rock' and everyone listened. I love those people."

I must explain "the rock." I had shared with my family the stories of the "talking circles" that the Peacemaker, Dorothy Davis from the Stockbridge Munsee Band of Mohicans, had shared with me. She told of the rock she passes around in the "talking circles" to allow time for talk. When a person has the rock, they have the floor until they pass the rock. I tell stories that are important to me, never knowing if they mean much to anyone else. But, it must have been important to Sammy. He has adopted "the rock" story. He comes from a family of four children and I guess he likes the idea of having the floor until he passes "the rock," even if it is a pretend rock.

There were probably about 10 adults at the gathering on that first Monday evening. We all sat around a table working on our flutes. Each person was at a different stage of work. Many of them were on their second or third flutes. Sammy and I were far behind them, but it didn't matter. Mark got us started. We all worked as we talked. Periodically, Mark would play his flute or maybe play a flute as it was completed. The flute music added to the calm. Mark played them beautifully. By the way, playing is not as easy as it looks. There was no awkwardness of difference in age.

The 11-year-old seemed to fit right in. He was so eager to know everything. As I reflected back on the talk of the evening, I wondered what impressed Sammy so much. They were talking of their families. They were talking of their hopes and plans for their Council. They were talking of the Chickasaw history. They were talking of learning stick ball and stomp dancing. I noticed, there was no talk of the horrors of the world or politics or the hardships of the day.

Sammy was right. As we worked together and chatted of our Chickasaw families and histories, there was a calm. And my 11-year-old nephew and I loved this time. Our cousin, Smith Cole, was there. Several families had several family members there. The conversation was easy and free. There was no structure or course. There was no curriculum. Sammy knew inherently that the culture was passing. The passing was in the talk, in the gathering, in the stories. And we both loved it.

We are still working on our flute. We bought one of Mark's flutes from him. Sammy was dying to play a flute. He hopped in the car and immediately began to play. My attempts at playing were not so successful. But, I'm hopeful. They told us about the June Council meeting. Richard Green will be there to give a lesson of a Chickasaw battle. So, as Sammy has reminded me several times, "We will be there."

$10,000 Herrington Scholarship open to Chickasaw undergrads

Are you a college/university student with an interest in space aeronautics? If you meet the following qualifications, the Chickasaw Foundation invites you to make application for the John Bennett Herrington scholarship. This scholarship is named in honor of Commander John B. Herrington, U.S.N., and it was made possible by the generous donation of the Chickasaw Nation.

One scholarship for a maximum of $10,000 annually, for up to two years, will be awarded to a Chickasaw undergraduate student enrolled in his/her junior or senior year at any four-year college or university. Students must be pursuing a degree in engineering, mathematics, physics, chemistry, geophysics, natural science or related fields approved by the Chickasaw Foundation Board of Trustees, and have a demonstrated interest in space aeronautics. To be eligible, a student must remain in full-time status for the entire academic year that the scholarship covers, and maintain a 2.5 GPA or higher on a 4.0 scale. Continuation of the scholarship also requires the student to remain in full-time status with a 2.5 cumulative GPA or higher.

Applications for the John Bennett Herrington Scholarship must be post-marked, faxed or delivered to the Chickasaw Foundation by July 1, 2004. If you are interested in applying for this scholarship, please contact the foundation at (580) 421-9030.

Type 2 diabetes in children and teens

Carl Albert to participate in landmark diabetes study

The Chickasaw Nation Health System's Carl Albert Hospital will soon participate in a landmark national research project to evaluate three treatment regimens for their effectiveness in controlling type 2 diabetes in children and teens.

Conducted at 12 sites nationally beginning in July, the research project will study the effects of diabetes medications with and without intensive lifestyle alteration on approximately 750 young people 10 to 17 years of age.

Type 2 diabetes, also known as adult-onset diabetes, has become in the last decade become increasingly common among children and teens. Oklahoma has one of the highest incidence rates in the nation and rates of the disease among Native American children in the state may be as high as 25 percent.

"There is no doubt that type 2 diabetes is epidemic among the Indian population and probably the fastest growing segment of that is among the children," said Bobby Saunkeah, R.N., and certified diabetes educator at the Chickasaw Nation Diabetes Center.

There are currently 81 diagnosed diabetics under the age of 19 being treated at Carl Albert. That total number has doubled in the past two years, according to Tom John, director of health planning and policy for the Chickasaw Nation Health System.

While studies have shown the effectiveness of medications and lifestyle changes in adults, this study will be the first large scale study of its kind to evaluate treatment options in young people.

Mr. Saunkeah pointed out there are several reasons this is a very important study.

"We have so many high risk kids. Until we stop or control the diabetes among this population it's just going to keep expanding, there's just no way around it," said Mr. Saunkeah. "The bad thing is the complications of diabetes are so severe and so devastating. If you've had uncontrolled diabetes for about five years you start seeing complications."

Those complications can include vision loss or blindness, loss of feeling in the feet and hands, end stage renal disease requiring dialysis, congestive heart failure and poor circulation which can necessitate amputation, among other problems.

"Recent literature shows the progression of diabetes in kids is quicker than it is in adults," said Mr. Saunkeah. "So that gives us a much narrower window to intervene than we have with the adult population."

"If you're 65 and have some complications that's one thing, but if you're 19 and you start having eye complications or kidney complications or heart complications that's a lot different and that's what we're trying to avoid."

Approximately 10 children are expected to be enrolled at Carl Albert in the first year of the five-year study, which will compare the effects of three types of treatments: metformin alone; metformin and rosiglitazone in combination; and metformin plus intensive lifestyle changes aimed at losing weight and increasing physical activity.

Children will be followed a minimum of three years, and eventually, 30 or more children at CAIHF may participate.

Children participating in the study will receive free study-related medications, diabetes education, laboratory tests, and doctor visits. Reimbursement for all study-related costs as well as rewards for achieving study related goals will be provided.

A grant from the National Institutes of Health awarded to University of Oklahoma Children's Physicians Diabetes Center will fund the study, which will be available to all children in Oklahoma.

Carl Albert will be one of three Native American health facilities in the state to join OU Children's Physicians Diabetes Center as part of the study.

The Little Axe Health Clinic affiliated with the Absentee Shawnee tribe, and the Choctaw Health Care Center in Tahleah will also participate in the study.

Oklahoma and New York are the only states that will include a Native American component for this study.

For more information about the study, call Carl Albert at (580) 421-4532 or OU Children's Physicians Diabetes center at (800) 613-8512.

'Power to Prevent' campaign to feature Chickasaw people

Sheila and Mandy Bennett, Christie Byars and Edmond Post oak, all Chickasaw, will soon be appearing on posters across the United States as part of a national ad campaign to help Native Americans learn to prevent diabetes.

Tom John, director of health planning and policy for the Chickasaw Nation Health System, is part of the National Diabetes Education Program, a national work group sponsored by the National Institutes of Health and the Centers for Disease Control.

"There was a huge national study showing that you can prevent diabetes," Mr. John said. "They recently started a new public awareness campaign specific to the Native Americans. This program is called the 'Power to Prevent,' and it's based on that Diabetes Prevention Program study. We were fortunate enough to be selected as one of the pilot sites in that education campaign."

"Photographers with the campaign came out here last summer, and it turned out that some of our folks were selected to be on the national posters."

Results of the DPP study, a major clinical trial including 3,234 people with impaired glucose tolerance, indicate that lifestyle changes can greatly reduce the risk of getting diabetes for those at high risk for the disease.

Participants in the study reduced their risk of getting type 2 diabetes by 58 percent by maintaining an average of 30 minutes of moderate intensity exercise, and losing five to seven percent of their body weight.

The study found that exercise was even more effective than treatment with the oral diabetes drug metformin (Glucophage).

"It would be nice if we got to the point we didn't have to worry about preventing complications any more, because we could prevent diabetes itself," said Bobby Saunkeah, R.N., and certified diabetes educator at the Chickasaw Nation Diabetes Center.

The 'Power to Prevent' campaign will educate Native Americans about simple steps that can be taken to prevent diabetes.

A kick off event for the national campaign was conducted in Washington, D.C. April 28, and a local campaign kick off specific to Native Americans will be scheduled in the near future.

Services from Head Start to Johnson O'Malley to Upward Bound to a variety of scholarship opportunities are available to assist everyone from young children through adults in achieving their educational goals.

Great strides are also being made in preserving the Chickasaw culture.

The Chickasaw Nation District Court began hearing cases in January of this year, and plans are under way to incorporate traditional peacemaking court as part of its operation.

An innovative language program offers language classes appropriate for use in preschool through college level courses.

Traditional structures have been built at Kullihoma and the tribe is very active in repatriation efforts.

Beyond that, final planning is under way for a state-of-the-art Chickasaw Culture Center to be constructed on 110 acres near Sulphur.

Gov. Anoatubby also serves on state and national boards in various positions of volunteer leadership.

A few of his wide ranging activities include service as a trustee for the Morris K. Udall Foundation and Oklahoma City University; member of Fannie Mae's National Advisory Council; board member of Oklahoma State Board for Easter Seals and Crippled Children, Leadership Oklahoma, Oklahoma Foundation for Excellence; Oklahoma Academy for State Goals; member of Governor Henry's Task Force on Mental Health, Substance Abuse and Domestic Violence, along with many others.

Currently serving his third term as Chairman of the Native American Cultural and Educational Authority, Gov. Anoatubby is assisting in the development of a major, new Native American Cultural Center in Oklahoma City. This will be a world-class facility designed to provide a state, national and international focus on the tribes located in Oklahoma.

Net assets top $200 million; businesses outpacing previous year results

FINANCIAL REPORT

The tribal government capitation includes the tribe's general fund and the tribe's BIA trust funds. The Chickasaw Businesses include all of the businesses and operations of the Chickasaw Enterprises. Not included in the financial statements are federally or state funded programs and/or grants and the financial statements of Bank 2 and Chickasaw Industries, Inc.

The growing needs of the businesses are taken into account when determining the transfers from the businesses to the general fund. It is vital to the long range mission of the Chickasaw Nation that the businesses continue to grow and diversify.

Revenues of the tribal operation, other than the transfer from businesses, include sales taxes from the businesses, motor fuel settlement funds and investment income. Chickasaw Businesses revenues include gaming revenues net of prizes, sales revenue at convenience, travel plazas and tobacco stores, rent and investment income.

Tribal expenditures are classified by function. General government includes the election commission, maintenance and operations of tribal property, Chickasaw Times and governor's and lt. governor's offices. Expenditure for education includes education scholarship as well as the tribe's division of education. Health expenditures include senior citizens sites, eye glasses, hearing aids, prescription drugs, wellness center, community health clinics, catastrophic medical assistance and other similar programs not covered by federal programs or grants.

The businesses' expenditures are classified as to expenses associated with gaming operation of the tribe and the other businesses of the tribe.

Depreciation has not been computed on the Fixed Assets of the governmental funds for the past year or the current year. This will be computed after year end in connection with the audit. Some year-end adjustments have not been made.

Executive Summary of the Financial Statements of the period ending April 30, 2004

Tribal Government

Revenues and transfers from the businesses totaled $3.0 million for the month and $26.5 million for the year.

Expenditures for the month were $1.9 million and $12.5 for the year to date which is slightly less than the budget for the seven months. Expenditures for construction of fixed assets total $200,000 for the month and $4.3 million for the year to date. Current expenditures for fixed assets are included in fixed assets.

Chickasaw Businesses

Revenue net of gaming prizes total $181.6 million. Net income before the transfers to the Tribal Government was $63.3 million for the year to date and was better than budget. Expenditures for fixed assets were $5.7 million for the month and $26.3 million years to date.

Sharing cultures and learning about the world

Chickasaws make way to Japan as exchange students

Tim Harjo, left, helps LeeAnn Goheen and Kyle Goodnight make flutes they will take to Japan as part of the cultural exchange progra.

Lee Ann Goheen and Kyle Goodnight will take hand crafted flutes, dream catchers, stomp dance dresses and ribbon shirts to share with students in Hitachi, Japan as part of a cultural exchange program between Ada (OK) High School and its sister school, Ibaraki Christian School.

Miss Goheen and Mr. Goodnight will join nine other Ada High School students who will leave June 3 for a three-week visit with Japanese students. A number of the Japanese students recently returned home after a four-week stay in Ada.

While many of the students learned something about Japanese culture when those students came to Ada, they are looking forward to learning more in Japan.

"I went to the Crosspoint camp with them. They showed a little bit of their culture just in how they act," Mr. Goodnight said. "They're all really courteous people. They're not rude. They do a lot of things different than Americans would."

"I just got a little bit of a taste from Crosspoint, and that's what kind of made me want to go on this trip."

Kay Gamble Faulkner, director of the Japanese exchange program, said she thinks the Chickasaw students will add a new dimension to the program.

"I am excited this year that the Chickasaws are involved and we are doing some Native American cultural exchange too," said Ms. Faulkner. "The Japanese are always interested and always have questions. When they send us profiles, often they'll say they want to know more about Native American culture. They're all extremely interested in the American way of life, and they all have questions about Native Americans."

Other students plan to take items ranging from porcelain dolls to rose rocks to beef jerky as part of the cultural exchange.

"I think our plan when we go over there is to just teach them everything," said Reagan Holland. "The history of Oklahoma. The Native Americans. The cowboys and everything. The things that they think of when they think of Oklahoma. Because that's our heritage and that's what we know."

Only one of the students taking the trip, Tyler Weirick, speaks any Japanese. Most, however, do not think that will present a problem, because their Japanese counterparts speak English fairly well.

Miss Goheen said the Japanese students understand English, most of the time.

"It's not so hard for them to understand as long as we speak slow and use normal words. Not words like 'nifty,'" said Miss Goheen to a knowing round of laughter from the group of students. She added that the accent of the Japanese students sometimes made it difficult to understand them.

Some students expect to see a "very traditional" and somewhat monolithic culture in Japan.

"They have a lot of rituals in Japan," said Leah Barbata. "When they go into the houses, they wear slippers and such. Over there they're very traditional and have their ways."

Those students may be in for a bit of a surprise according to Ms. Faulkner.

"The Japanese are very interested in other cultures," said Ms. Faulkner. "They embrace all kinds of ideas. When the kids go over there, they are probably going to be surprised how many - of course it's done kind of in a Japanese way - but how many cultures are blended in. There will be French type bakeries. There will be lots of different things that will be there."

"They can get pizza, spaghetti, and all of that. There will be fast food shops just like we have here. There will be Kentucky Fried Chicken. Now the menu may be a little different. Instead of super-sizing stuff like we do, things are sort of miniaturized."

Trip sponsor Trey Logsdon said he thought the trip can be a great experience for the students.

Chickasaw cagers named to Indian All-State Basketball teams

FAIRFAX, Okla. - Forty-eight first team players and 20 second team players were announced recently by Oklahoma Indian All-State Basketball officials.

"This is our ninth year for Oklahoma Indian All-State and we are pleased that it has become one of the most competitive Indian athletic events in the state," said co-founder Dr. Carol Conner. "The quality of the players both athletically and academically has grown considerably."

This year Oklahoma Wesleyan University in Bartlesville, Okla., will host the games on June 18 and 19. The North and South first team All-State Girls Championship will begin at 6 p.m. on June 19 and the North and South first team All-State Boys Game will begin immediately after the girls. For information about the games please call (918) 642-3162.

"All fans are welcome and "I think when they make the trip, they come back with such a bigger picture of what the world is," said Mr. Logsdon. "It grows from just being small town Ada, Oklahoma to thinking about what's going on across the big pond."

"It also opens them up that there are other people with different traditions, different beliefs, than we might have. I think it's a pretty healthy way to expand your horizons."

Ms. Faulkner agreed that the program, which first started in 1986, can have a long-term impact.

"My own daughters went with me in 1999, and they have nothing but good to say and would like to return," said Ms. Faulkner. "I've had other students tell me it's impacted them - not just the trip itself, but all the events that happened and the experiences that have impacted them through the college years."

"When the Japanese students come we have a cultural exchange called the Cherry Blossom Festival the last night or two that they are here. And a lot of people who have participated often come from the community, because there are a lot of good memories."

All the students at Ada High School benefit from the cultural exchange program, regardless of whether they actually get to make the trip to Japan.

"When the Japanese were here, everybody in the student body had a Japanese student in their class at one point, most likely. And that experience was good for our kids as well as the Japanese folks that were here," said Mr. Logsdon.

That impact, would however, be greater if more students made the trip.

"My goal and Ada High School's goal to increase the numbers that go over there," said Ms. Faulkner. "We are able to send 15. We've never sent 15 before. Usually just a few people go over at a time. If we could start having a really full program each year I think we could have even a bigger impact on the kids."

New Senior Citizen Site dedicated in Purcell

Chickasaw Nation Governor Bill Anoatubby joined legislators, city officials and Purcell area seniors at the grand opening ceremony of the Purcell Senior Citizen Nutrition Site. The grand opening celebration was May 6.

PURCELL, Okla. – Officials of the Chickasaw Nation celebrated the grand opening of the tribe's newest senior citizen nutrition site May 6 in Purcell.

The Purcell site, located at 703 Sherri Classic Blvd., is the ninth Chickasaw Nation senior site to open.

"We, as Chickasaw Nation citizens, truly respect our elders," Chickasaw Nation Governor Bill Anoatubby said. "The newest senior site is part of our continuing efforts to improve the overall quality of life of our elders," he added.

The 6,000-square-foot structure offers elders many amenities and includes a kitchen, sitting area, dining room, computer area, exercise area, game area, and arts and crafts area.

Upward Bound program hosting 153 students

The Chickasaw Foundation Upward Bound summer residential program will begin June 1, 2004 on the campus of Murray State College in Tishomingo, Oklahoma. There will be 153 students attending the six-week summer session.

The Upward Bound summer session is designed to simulate a college experience. The students live in the dormitory, eat in the cafeteria and attend academic classes. Each student receives daily instruction in mathematics (through pre-calculus), science (including labs), foreign language, composition and literature, and students participate in Purcell Senior Site manager Nina Crossley said the center is not only a benefit to seniors, but also to the city of Purcell.

"This is a place Purcell can be proud of," she said.

The site is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Lunch is served weekdays at 11:30 a.m. Crossley hopes the new center will serve around 50 people a day.

In addition to meals, the tribal aging and senior services program offers arts and crafts, fundraisers, trips and education on various programs available to seniors. The site will also provide meals to eligible homebound seniors in the Purcell area.

"One of the most important benefits of the site is having a place for seniors to go, to meet and to visit," tribal Division of Aging administrator Karen Cook said.

The Chickasaw Nation Division of Aging has senior sites in Achille, Ada, Ardmore, Connerville, Kullihoma, Madill, Purcell, Sulphur and Tishomingo. A senior citizen site in Pauls Valley is under construction and is slated to open later this year.

"You've lead the way for us," Gov. Anoatubby told the elders at the grand opening celebration. "You're continually in our hearts and we're going to do what we can to help support and lift up our elders."

During the grand opening celebration, Cook, Purcell Senior Site manager Nina Crossley, and Purcell area senior Ruby Adkins presented an American flag that had flown over the U.S. Capitol Building to Gov. Anoatubby. The Chickasaw Nation received the flag thanks to Oklahoma Fourth District U.S. Rep. Tom Cole. Gov. Anoatubby returned the flag and asked that it fly over the Purcell Senior Nutrition Site. Gov. Anoatubby dedicated the flag to all Chickasaw Nation citizens serving in the armed forces.

Marietta student recognized for academic excellence

Ceza Pershica

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Ceza K. Pershica of Marietta, Okla., has been named an All-American Scholar.

The USAA has established the All-American Scholar Award Program to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. The All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or higher grade point average (GPA). Only scholars selected by a school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the USAA.

Ceza, who attends Marietta High School, was nominated for this national award by Ms. Donaldson. Ceza will appear in the All-American Scholar Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, winners of the All-American Scholar Awards should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," executive director of the United States Achievement Academy Dr. Geroe Stevens said.

The Academy selects All-American Scholars upon the exclusive recommendation by teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors. Once awarded, the students may be recognized by the USAA for other honors.

Ceza is the daughter of Harrison Jr., and Sandy Pershica, of Marietta. She is the granddaughter of Harrison and Mona Pershica, Marietta, and Gordon and Uyvon Hail, of Porter, Texas.

Texas girl competing in Pony Club nationals

Marcia Gibson, 15, of Tomball, Texas and her horse Prince Among Men, qualified in May for the National Championships in Novice Eventing with the United States Pony Club. The competition will be July 20 - 23 at the Kentucky Horse Park in Lexington, Kentucky.

Eventing is a combination of three riding techniques, the first being dressage. Dressage is a set pattern of movements, with each movement receiving a score. The degree of difficulty varies with the level of test. At its highest level, dressage is done in the Olympics and at the Spanish Riding School in Vienna.

The second phase of eventing is stadium jumping. This is a test of height, width, and turns. Refusals and knocking rails down adds points to your score.

The third phase is cross county jumping which is open jumping in the fields, woods and through a water obstacle. These jumps are solid and don't fall down, so speed (not too fast) and careful riding are very important.

The lowest score wins.

The United States Pony Club is a worldwide organization for children who are interested in riding English and learning about horses. All sizes of horses are used; the name was designed to distinguish it from the adult Hunt Clubs in England where pony club got its start.

Marcia has been riding since she was old enough to hang on behind her mother in the saddle and has been in USPC since she was five. She got Prince, an Appendix Quarter Horse four years ago and has been working hard at her riding.

National Championships at the Kentucky Horse Park are only conducted every three years, during the USPC Festival and the riders must be at least 13 years old. This is the first time Marcia has been eligible. She will represent the Rio Grande Region and her club, Tejas.

Marcia is the daughter of Steven R. and Lisa (Underwood) Gibson.

She is the granddaughter of the late Noweta Whiting Underwood and the great-granddaughter of the late Lillian Sacra, an original enrollee.

Kansas Chickasaw teen achieves rank of Eagle Scout

Taylor Hamilton

Taylor Hamilton began his journey to Eagle Scout as a Tiger Cub of Pack 3385 at Mission Trail Elementary School. In second grade he became a member of Den 17. Taylor earned his Webelos badge in March of 1999 and his Arrow of Light in February of 2000. After crossing over to Boy Scouts and becoming a member of Troop 10, Taylor progressed through Tenderfoot, Second Class and First Class Ranks. He advanced to Star Scout in May of 2001 and became a Life Scout in February of 2002.

Along the Trail to Eagle, Taylor has earned 26 merit badges, the Historic Trails Award, the God and Me and the God and Family Religious Awards. He is a Brotherhood Member of the Order of the Arrow. Taylor has served Troop 10 in several leadership positions including Quartermaster, Patrol Leader, Instructor, Den Chief, and Assistant Senior Patrol Leader. He has attended H. Roe Bartle

Scout Reservation Camp for five years. He is a Brave in the tribe of Mic-O-Say and his tribal name is "Chickasaw Healing Lion." Taylor is proud to be a Chickasaw citizen.

For his Eagle Scout Project, Taylor planned, helped construct, and supervised the building of a wooden porch swing and an a-frame to hang the swing on for the Ronald McDonald House of Kansas City. The families that stay at the Ronald McDonald House will be able to enjoy the swing and the comfort that rocking brings to those families of patients in Children's Mercy Hospital.

Taylor is 15 years old and a freshman at Blue Valley North High School. He was quarterback for the freshman football team. Taylor is on the Principal's Honor Roll. He enjoys snow skiing, scuba diving and hunting with his two Weimeraner dogs, Tess and Stowe. He is a confirmed member of the United Methodist Church of the Resurrection where he volunteers in the third grade Kids COR.

Taylor is the youngest child of Denny and Kay Hamilton. He has two older sisters: Emma, who is married to Dan Entwistle, and Bryce, who is a freshman at TCU. His older brother, Chris and his wife, Courtney, live in Dallas where they are photojournalists. He also has two nephews, Hunter and Chase Entwistle.

He is the great-grandson of original enrollee David Penn Chitwood.

The Troop 10 Committee, acting on behalf of the National Eagle Scout Court of Honor and the Heart of America Council, is proud to present the Eagle Scout Award to Taylor Carson Hamilton.

Chickasaw diver takes third at national competition

Kaylea Arnett

SAN ANTONIO, Texas - Kaylea Arnett, an 11-year-old Chickasaw diver who trains at the U.S. Diving Regional Training Center at Oklahoma City, continues working hard to fulfill her dream of one day earning Olympic Gold.

Kaylea finished third in one meter and sixth in three meter diving against 30 of the best 11-and-under divers in the nation at the Junior Olympic West Winter National competition April 23 and 24 in San Antonio.

Her close friend and teammate, Shanna Schuelein, finished fourth in one meter and third in three meter at the event.

Recently, Kaylea has been dividing her time between competing and watching divers from around the world competing in preparation for the 2004 Olympic Games in Greece.

While Kaylea will not be eligible for Olympic competition until the 2008 games, Alik Sarkisian, her diving coach, thinks she has a good chance at a medal if she keeps progressing as she has since joining the program.

Since Kaylea began training in late 2000, she has numerous achievements. She earned two bronze medals and helped the U.S. team to a third-place finish in the 2003 Junior Pan American Championships in Belem, Brazil.

Kaylea finished only 2.07 points behind the first-place finisher in three meter competition and earned her other bronze in platform. She also placed fifth in one meter.

The Pan American Championships included divers from Canada to Argentina, and was Kaylea's most important competition to date, Sarkisian said in an interview shortly after the event.

"That was for Kaylea like Olympic Games," said Sarkisian who added that it "was fun to watch her, how she is reacting to all these situations. She did great."

This is just the beginning for Kaylea, according to Sarkisian, who said her finish is "unbelievable success" for a diver with only two years experience.

"She has good future. Everybody is thinking she will be really great."

That was Kaylea's second international competition. She helped the U.S. Junior All-Star team defeat the Canadian Junior Elite team 983 to 803 at the U.S./Canada Junior Challenge in May, 2003 in Buffalo, N.Y.

Chickasaw college interns making a difference at Bank2

J.D. Colbert

By J.D. COLBERT

We at the Chickasaw Nation, like so many tribes across our country, believe very much in the value of educating our young people. Too often, however, we tend to think of education in terms of a formal higher educational experience. Higher education is certainly a key to a better future and a better life. However, "real world" work experience in the form of a summer internship can be a fulfilling complement to one's higher educational efforts.

At Bank2, we are proud to have two summer interns working for us this summer in Chris Moody and Blake Burkhart. Chris will be a sophomore at OU and he is majoring in political science while Blake is a business major and will be starting his senior year at OU. Both of these young Chickasaw men are intelligent, quick to learn and eager to contribute to the growth of Bank2. In the short time that they have been here, they have been able to step in and help us complete important projects.

For Chris and Blake their work experience this summer will not only serve as an introduction to the professional workplace but will also allow them to post some valuable, "real world" work experience on their resumes. They will thus be better prepared to enter the work world after their college education is complete and to have a strong foundation on which to build further success. Certainly we hope that their path in life might bring them back to Bank2 as full-time employees after they have completed their formalized education.

We at Bank2 are thankful for the Chickasaw Nation Summer Youth Program for making these interns available to us. We strongly urge other Chickasaw businesses to participate in this valuable program. You will not only obtain assistance in building your business but will also be carrying on a deeply held Chickasaw value of providing an educational experience for our young people.

So to all of the other Chickasaw-owned business, we say: Invest in the future by participating as an employer in the Chickasaw Nation Summer Youth Program.

J.D. Colbert serves as a consultant to Bank2. Bank2 is a growing $60 million full service financial institution with its headquarters in Oklahoma City, OK. Bank2 is owned and operated by the Chickasaw Nation. It's About Money, is published monthly by Bank2, as a financial service to members of the Chickasaw Nation.

KADA programs now heard on local Cable One channel 8

ADA, Okla. - KADA's FM signal can now be heard on Cable One's channel 8, for those cable customers who subscribe to Cable One in Ada, Okla.

KADA, owned by Chickasaw Enterprises entered into an exclusive agreement with Cable One recently. KADA's 99.3FM signal is simulcast on channel 8 on the Cable One cable system.

"We are very excited to put our radio signal on cable, because now this gives our listeners and advertisers three outlets for our programming...99.3FM... 1230am...and Cable One's channel 8," KADA general manager Roger Harris said. "It's just another way we are able to serve our area, and create more value in our product thanks to our partners at Cable One."

KADA programs country music on its FM channel and Sports-Talk on its AM signal.

The station also recently received special recognition from the Department of Human Services, for its "outstanding public service excellence" in educational support for the state of Oklahoma. KADA was only one of two stations in the entire state to receive recognition. "Supporting the community and the State has always been a priority with us, and to receive the highest media honor given by the DHS is indeed a special event for us," Harris said.

KADA will be celebrating its 75th Anniversary on the air this fall, along with the seventh year of ownership by the tribe.

Students participating in the Chickasaw Nation After School Arts Program received honorable mention in the 2004 Hideaway Foundation Collage competition. The collage was on exhibit in April at the State Capitol Park.

The collage competition was in conjunction with National Youth Art Month. This year's collage theme was "Our town: Where We Live, Learn, Work, Pray and Play." The art students in the Chickasaw Nation Division of Arts and Humanities focused on "What Being a Chickasaw Means to Me."

"I am extremely proud of the Chickasaw Nation After School Arts Program," Chickasaw Nation Governor Bill Anoatubby said. "The pride these students have for the Chickasaw Nation is reflected in their art projects," he said.

The students were instructed by Laura Stewart, arts in education manager, and Trina Jones, arts specialist and collage project coordinator. Students photographed moments illustrating life as a Chickasaw citizen. The photos were then placed in a collage exhibit. A descriptive essay accompanied the collage.

"We wanted to show the Chickasaw Nation is still striving," Ms. Stewart said. "But most importantly, we wanted this project to come through the children's eyes."

"I am proud to be Chickasaw and I feel I have lots of opportunities for the future," 14-year-old Chiminayne Walton, of Byng, said.

"Being Chickasaw means culture and tradition," Sierra Worchester, 11, of Byng, said.

Valori Harjo, 13, of Ada, said, "Being Chickasaw means being proud of your blood."

"I think being Chickasaw is something to be proud of," Cheyenne Durant, 12, of Pickett, said. "I think it means nature, animals and beauty."

The Hideaway Collage competition, sponsored by Hideaway Pizza, is a seven-year project with a unique collection of historic art. The event is designed to help celebrate Oklahoma's Centennial Year in 2007. The competition began in 2000 and each year the art project focuses on different themes, covering all aspects of life in Oklahoma.

This is the first year the Chickasaw Nation After School Arts Program entered the competition. The art program won $100 that will help purchase art supplies.

Youth Art Month is an annual observance emphasizing the value of education in art for all children while encouraging support for quality school art programs.

Chickasaw Nation Head Start is much more than you think!

The Chickasaw Nation conducts Head Start programs in Ada, Ardmore, Duncan, Madill, Sulphur and Tishomingo.

While Head Start students learn basic skills like the alphabet, numbers, colors and shapes, Chickasaw Nation Head Start programs go well beyond the basic learning activities. Children also receive an introduction to reading, languages, music and Chickasaw culture. The Head Start programs visit nursing homes and libraries, students listen to cultural stories and some participate in wellness exercises.

"We're very proud of our youth and the Chickasaw Nation Head Start programs," Chickasaw Nation Governor Bill Anoatubby said. "The skills these students learn while in Head Start serve as a stepping stone for the knowledge and education they will gain in the future."

Parental support and involvement is a vital key in the Chickasaw Nation Head Start programs. Parents are involved in a variety of roles, including taking time to read to the children and listening to students read.

This year Head Start took numerous field trips. Some classes visited the Jasmine Moran Children's Museum, Cornerstone Kid's Ranch, Elder's Day, Chickasaw Festival, Wintersmith Park and Bedre' Chocolate Factory. In addition, some classes watched a live performance of Beauty and the Beast and others toured local fire stations.

Dr. Braly has been a member of numerous civic organizations and was honored as "Outstanding Volunteer for Sarasota County" as a result of his service on their Solid Waste Management Committee.

Eden's Eclipse

By Ryan Stynes

Know this man in a picture just a picture is all we ever know they say his spirit was received by the buffalo

His eyes they tell so many stories stories so sadly can't be told i can only wonder what his heart felt
from a picture taken so long ago

So many circles have been broken
eden eclipsed by ugly white winds
blue eyes were blind to beauty
great nations whisper in the wind

See this woman's sadness within these pages it seems so cold and alone
she saw her blood lines cut down by blue coats remember wounded knee forever frozen in the snow

How many tortured tears did she sleep with dreaming of times when the crows flight was her home i can only wonder how the hate hurt
from a picture taken so long ago
So many circles have been broken
Eden eclipsed by ugly white winds
Blue eyes blind to beauty
Great nations whisper in the wind
See the innocence of these children banished from a world that was so pure how can one youth with a bounty earth mother the peace bird flies no more
So many circles have been broken
eden eclipsed by ugly white winds
blue eyes were blind to beauty
great nations whisper in the wind

This poem was written by Ryan at the age of 18. He is the son of Neatha Collins Stynes. He is the grandson of Bud Collins and the great-grandson of Espaheesha (Lee) Collins.

Indian warriors have served the United States well and often

By CHARLES BLACKWELL
Chickasaw Ambassador to the United States

One of the truly fine things about being an American is having the freedom to be anything one wants to be. All Americans may not be created equal exactly but we surely do have the right to rise to equality. I like that.

It's almost the Fourth of July. Our troops are fighting and dying in several places around the world. In Washington, the security barriers and the patrols are constant reminders of our heightened state of vulnerability. The World War II Memorial to the war fought by my father and my uncles is open and an election season is coming. It's an unsettled and frightening time.

I've always admired and taken thoughtful pride in the fact that my grandfather fought for the USA, which has not been so good to him or his Tribe. I believe because he was an American Indian, he knew even better the value of protecting our greater federal democracy.

He was Choc-taw and I had Chickasaw uncles who served in the same war. They were true American Indian Americans and proud of it. Being one complements the other.

I've been pondering what it means to be an American Indian American. As the family and I get ready to partake of the Fourth of July festivities here in Washington, D.C., I wonder whether as an Indian, I should be watching the Fourth of July fireworks on the National Mall? Should I, instead, view Independence Day as a celebration of freedom for the citizens of the United States of America and of the beginning of the destruction and domination of Indian people?

Truth be told, the Fourth of July serves as a catalyst to bring our families together and connect us with the larger American community. We honor our Indian fathers, brothers and neighbors who fought heroically to defend our country. We are proud of the fact that American Indians have a long tradition of serving with pride and accomplishment in the United States Armed Forces. From the War of 1812 to the present Iraq War, Indians have played and continue to play a vital role in the military, with more troops serving per capita than from any other ethnic group. Today, native patriotism is reflected in the more than 13,000 American Indians and Alaska Natives on active duty and the 6,400 reservists. I also think it is important to note that had the rest of

If the American population volunteered at the rate of American Indians in World War II, the draft would have been unnecessary. Our warrior society roots are deep and strong.

A few years ago, President George W. Bush honored several Navajo Code Talkers with congressional medals commemorating their service to this country. What I liked the most about his speech was his recognition that America should pay tribute to the tradition and community that produced such men to fight for their country. He talked about a shared history and shared victory between American Indians and the United States. His speech captured an idea I share with him - that we should be proud that we have raised honorable and courageous American Indian men and women who, as our warriors, make Indian country a safer place by making their country strong. We cannot deny that our tribal governments and our People we do indeed have a long and intertwined history with the United States which has not all been good but, then, not all bad either. At the end of this Fourth of July Independence day, we are Indians first but we are also Americans. We serve this country every day as American Indian Americans and I am proud to be a part of all of it!

Conservation programs, financial assistance, open to land owners

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is the federal agency in the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) that provides technical and financial assistance to land owners and managers in support of the wise use and management of their natural resources. NRCS has provided this assistance to the nation, through voluntary programs, for almost 70 years.

NRCS in Oklahoma has several programs being offered at this time. Some are ongoing programs and some are new programs written in the 2002 Farm Bill. Many programs have continuous sign-up periods while others are limited to specific dates. The following is a brief description of many programs administered through NRCS. An article describing each program is greater detail will follow over the next several months.

- Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP)

EQIP is a voluntary program that addresses the most critical environmental issues on agricultural lands, as identified by a locally led process. The program provides technical and financial assistance to landowners who qualify through 1 - 10 year contracts.

- Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP)

Whip is a voluntary program that provides technical and financial assistance to help landowners develop, restore, improve, or maintain wildlife habitat. Assistance is provided through 5 to 10 year contracts. Currently in Oklahoma NRCS has partnered with the Oklahoma Department of Wildlife Conservation to provide technical assistance.

- Wetland Reserve Program (WRP)

WRP is a voluntary program established to restore and protect wetlands. NRCS provides technical and financial assistance through a 10-year restoration agreement, 30-year easement, or a permanent easement. Landowners agree to limit use of the land to wetland purposes by retain hunting, fishing, and other recreational uses including the right to lease property.

- Conservation Security Program (CSP)

CSP is a new voluntary program in the 2002 Farm Bill.

The program has earned the motto, "Reward the Best and Motivate the Rest". The program will identify and reward those farmers and ranchers who are meeting the highest standards of conservation and environmental management on their operations. The program will also offer incentives for other producers to meet those standards.

- Grassland Reserve Program (GRP)

GRP is a voluntary program that helps protect valuable grasslands from conversion to other land uses such as cropland or urban development. GRP offers producers several enrollment options: permanent easements, 30-year easements, rental agreements for 10, 15, 20, or 30-years, and restoration agreements.

- Farm and Ranch Land Protection Program (FRPP)

FRPP is a voluntary program that helps protect farm and ranch land that has prime, unique or other productive soil or that contains historical or archaeological resources. These lands must also be subject to a pending offer from eligible entities for the purposes of protecting topsoil by limiting conversion of that land to nonagricultural uses. In short FRPP keeps agricultural lands in production by limiting the future use of eligible lands to agricultural operations such as farming and ranching.

More information is available at your local NRCS office of the NRCS Tribal Resource Conservationist. Below is a list of the offices in the 13 counties of the Chickasaw Nation. You can find a NRCS office in almost every county or parish in the United States and its territories.

Students of the Month

Students of the month have been selected for March through April in all four districts of the Chickasaw Nation.

Up to 24 awards are presented each month, as male and female student of the month awards are available in elementary, middle school and high school in each of the four districts of the Chickasaw Nation.

Each student of the month receives a recognition plaque and a $25 Wal-Mart gift certificate.

All Native American students with a Certificate of Degree of Indian Blood in grades one through 12 attending participating schools in the Chickasaw Nation are eligible for student of the month.

Students are nominated by teachers, counselors, JOM coordinators, principals or other school personnel in recognition of academic accomplishments, leadership qualities, positive attitude, work ethic, citizenship and other criteria.

Following are students of the month, along with selected comments from those who nominated each student.

There were no students of the month for the month of March in Panola District.

Students of the month in Pickens District are Brandi Nichols, Jacob Cooley, Starla Parker, Matthew O'dell all of Greenville Elementary. Ashli Block of Comanche High School and Jordan Ham of Plainview High School.

"Brandi Nichols is a very caring student. She strives to set a good example to fellow students," said Mrs. Grant. "She works hard in all areas of study."

"Jacob Cooley is an excellent student, who works hard," said Mrs. Grant. "He excels at reading and enjoys learning."

Starla Parker should be selected as student of the month for a variety of reasons. "She is always willing to go the extra mile, whether academically or socially," said Mrs. Richardson. "She routinely cleans the cafeteria after her class has eaten and does so on a voluntary basis". "It's this among other little things that Starla does on a daily basis that truly makes her an outstanding student."

Matthew O'dell is always willing to help. "He has a great sense of humor and pleasing personality," said Kris Doughty. "He shows he want to advance and go further than he is at the present. He talks kindly of his family, pets and friends." He is willing to help at a drop of the hat.

"Ashlie Block is a very sweet and dedicated young lady. She is always kind and giving to those in need," said Jacque Anderson. "She is proud of her Indian heritage and tries to educate others about it. Ashlie strives to do her best and is a wonderful and deserving student for student of the month."

Jordan Ham is an excellent student. "He is very quiet and rarely speaks out, but he always has a smile on his face," said Bob Hare. "He has been active in our school's band for several years and is an outstanding musician."

Emily Estes and Trenton Ellis of Latta are the students of the month for the Pontotoc District.

"Emily Estes is a considerate, well behaved person. She is a good student and takes pride in her work," said Deborah Priest.

"Emily is well liked by the other students. She has a love for horses and is a well rounded person."

"Trenton Ellis has a very likable personality to go along with a strong work ethic. He has a very good attendance record and he comes daily prepared, with homework in hand," said Jan Young. "He also excels in academics. Trenton knows how to take care of business and have a good time, at the same time."

Mikayla Low, Justin Steer, Jared Brooks, Sandi Brock, Gary DeWalt all of Wapanucka and Thomas Matthews of Tishomingo Middle School are the students of the month for the Tishomingo District.

"Mikayla Low has a good academic grades," said Kenni Lane.

"Justin Steer is a very pleasant student. He is very cooperative and gets along well with his classmates," said Kenni Lane.

"Justin loves to read books. He especially enjoys reading Star Wars books. He has read 3,711 pages this year and has earned a trip for reading achievement."

"Jared Brooks is a quiet, well mannered student. He is well liked by students and teachers," said Bill Vann.

"He always follows the rules. He does not complain or blame others. He works hard at all his assignments. He worries if his lessons are late."

"Thomas Mathews is a very quiet young man. He is courteous to both students and teachers," said Donna Owens. "He is a hard worker in the classroom and completes all assignments on time."

"Sandi Brock is in my English and journalism class. She works hard and has brought her grades up to all A's," said Rose Wooley. "She has many activities going on in her life, but she manages to keep her grades up. She works after school to help have a better life. She is fun and easy to get along with and well liked."

"Gary DeWitt is such a nice young man. He is always so helpful and is willing to help anyone with anything," said Rose Wooley.

"He is a special education student, but will work for anyone doing anything."

There were no Students of the Month submitted in the Panola District for the Month of April.

Students of the month for Pickens District are Jacobi Clark and Tyler Percival of Comanche. Nathan Landeros of Kingston, Allison Biddick, Plainview, and Kathryn Colbert, Ardmore.

"Jacobi Clark should be selected as 'Student of the Month' for several reasons. "First, she is an excellent student who works very hard to be her best," said Mrs. Morris. "Another great trait Jacobi has is that of peer tutor, she is always willing to help other students, however her greatest strength is her leadership ability. I'm sure she would be an excellent choice on student of the month."

Allison Biddick is one of Plainview's finest students. She has enrolled in OSSM classes in Physics and Calculus. "She has been nominated to the Indian Honor Society, and is a wonderful young lady," said Bob Hare.

"Kathryn Colbert is an outstanding student leader. She is a very good student, excelling in her academics, and one who plans to pursue a college degree in medicine," said Kim Smith. "She is very active in many organizations and is a recipient of many awards as well." She is a most deserving recipient."

"Tyler Percival is a wonderful student who strives to be the best he can be. He is taking classes that will help prepare him for college," said Jacque Anderson. "He maintains a 3.23 GPA and was nominated as a Presidential Classroom Student. Tyler would be a wonderful Chickasaw student of the month."

"Nathan Landeros is a Carter Seminary fifth grader at Kingston Elementary. Since his first day at Kingston in August, Nathan has been a 'model' student for others to follow. His attitude and his desire to achieve to be the best he can be, both in and out of the classroom, exemplifies the kind of student he is" said Sue Shilling.

"Nathan is very active in the showing of cattle at livestock shows. He has won numerous awards and ribbons this year and he is always very proud of this accomplishment, as he comes to show me, his teachers and other students his plaques and awards."

Nathan has been named to the JOM Honor roll throughout the year, another great accomplishment that he is proud of.

"Kingston Elementary would be proud to have Mr. Nathan Landeros as Chickasaw Nation Student of the Month."

Students for the month for Pontotoc District are Kelsey Burgess and Jake Frazier of Latta and Matthew Phillips of Wynnewood.

Kelsey Burgess is a wonderful example of what a good citizen should be. "She is responsible with her work as well as with her actions," said Kathy Brendle. "Kelsey has shown good growth in all areas this year. She is currently on the A's and B's Honor Roll. She has advanced a grade level in our Accelerated Reading Program." These are only a few reasons why Kelsey deserves this award.

Jake Frazier is deserving of the Student of the Month for several reasons. "First, he is an example of a model student who listens, follows instructions, and asks meaningful questions as to the content of study," said Cathe Jamar. "He tries his best in every area of study and exhibits a positive attitude towards learning. Second, he is a team player. Jake never puts himself above others who are having difficulties. He always lends a helping hand to help or encourage other students he is working with. Last but not least, Jake is just a good person. He is respectful, honest, and dependable." For these reasons and many more, I believe Jake Frazier should be selected as the

Student of the Month.

Matthew Phillips, "I would like to say that I am very honored to write this recommendation for Mr. Matt Phillips." said Angie Dixon.

"Of the six years that I have been teaching, Matt is one young man who really stands out. He is not afraid of hard work, he is a hard worker in and out of the school. Matt works several jobs after school and is very active in Boy Scouts, while maintaining a high GPA. He sets high standards for himself, makes his own decisions, and does not give in to peer pressure. To sum it up, he is the whole package. He is a smart, friendly, goal-oriented, Christian young man. He will be very successful in all that he chooses to do in the future. Matt is very deserving of this honor."

Students of the Month for the Tishomingo District are Courtney Reeder, Landri Wood, and Matt Clonts, of Wapanucka, Tana McSwain, Ravia and Adrian John of Tishomingo.

Courtney Reeder has attended Wapanucka School since Head Start. "She has been on the Superintendent's Honor Roll, Principal's Honor Roll and the Governor's Honor Roll," said Kenni Lane. "She likes the color purple and enjoys being with her family and going fishing with her brother and dad. She loves playing basketball and softball where she won her first trophy playing T-ball. She has a dog and a cat and a new baby sister named Kalee. She hopes to learn to play the piano."

"Landri Wood has an A or B in all the subjects in second grade," said Kenni Lane. "His behavior is always good. He is always willing to help others as well as me with anything I ask him to do. He is a very good student.

Tana McSwain is a seventh grade student at Ravia School.

She has won many awards in Science, Math, Spelling, Reading and Social Studies. Her hobbies are playing sports such as basketball and softball and she hopes to make the top five players on the team and hit a lot of home runs. She likes doing extra curricular activities. Her future plans are to graduate with A's and B's from high school and her goal is to succeed in whatever she tries to do and to not fail at what she does in life.

Matt Clonts is a senior and has been in my class for four years. "He is very polite and respectful," said Rose Wooley. "He has a pleasant, gentle spirit and is well liked by everyone.

"Adrian John is a quiet young man with a courteous manner," said Donna Owens. "He is a hard worker in the classroom and in his extracurricular activities, he shows responsibility by keeping classwork current and by treating others respectfully."

A poetic tribute to a mother

Lahoma

This is in effort to let my mom know that her wonderful love and sacrifices are very appreciated. She not only raised my sister and I but she is now rearing a granddaughter. She is continuing to put her all into Sierra. Taking her to the nonstop parade of ballgames and karate practice, she is her teacher, her playmate, her coach, her friend, her mother and her grandmother. I love you.

Kandie

Following poem submitted by Kandie Lowe

Of that cool sacrifice;
I know it can't be "just because,"

Or simply to be nice.

It is so awesome, I can't think
How I could make that choice,
Except I see something in you
That gives my own heart voice.

I see sometimes a happiness
Amid the stressed-out day
That no one else can hope to know

In any other way.

I feel it when you look at me
And understand sometimes
That things I do, I do for two,
And then your hard life shines.

And when I give you grief, I know

That all the bitter pain
Between a mom and growing child

Is simply like the rain.

That alternates with sunny days,
Passion without end,
While underneath is more of life

Than we can comprehend.

And then I know, perhaps, why

I Like you might be so moved
To give my life to someone else,
And know that I have loved.

I see you working hard for me
And wonder what it means:
Whether I will do the same
And give up my own dreams

To offer someone else my world,
A stranger from my womb,
And say: Here, take my life,
So you, not I, can bloom.

I often wonder at the depth

Indian agriculture credit needs studied

A unique approach designed to address the unique agriculture credit needs of American Indian communities has now expanded into Oklahoma. The National Tribal Development Association (NTDA) is a 501(c)(3) Non-Profit Corporation located in Box Elder, Montana. The pilot project, originally conducted in ten (10) western states, has shown a significant increase in the number of FSA loans made to American Indian farmers.

NTDA is in the process of implementing Phase III of the National Farm Service Agency

(FSA) American Indian Credit Outreach Initiative into the state of Oklahoma. NTDA is sponsoring the availability of an expanded USDA-sponsored credit outreach service targeted specifically for American Indian farmers. This program will incorporate outreach, education, and FSA loan application preparation services to American Indian farmers, ranchers and youth.

Loans available through FSA include, Guaranteed Farm Ownership, Farm Operating, Beginning Farmers and Ranchers, Direct Farm Ownership, and Rural Youth Loans. If you an American Indian farmer in need of assistance in applying for a loan, please contact your Credit Outreach Liaison at:

Oklahoma Indian Honor Society inductees

OKLAHOMA CITY - Nine outstanding Chickasaw students received dual honors this year as they collected awards from the Chickasaw Nation and the Oklahoma Indian Student Honor Society.

Two students, Tyra Shackelford of Purcell High School, and Dugan Jones of Madill High School, received triple honors.

Miss Shackelford won a Governor's Scholarship and Athlete of the Year award from the Chickasaw Nation, as well as being inducted into the Oklahoma Indian Student Honor Society (OISHS), which requires a grade point average of 3.9 or above and a letter of recommendation from a school official.

Mr. Jones won a Lt. Governor's Scholarship and Student of the Year from the Chickasaw Nation as well as being inducted into the OISHS.

Other Governor's Scholarship winners inducted into OISHS were Amy Somers of Lindsay, Adrienne Jenson of Rattan, Caleb Wingo and Jeff Carpenter of Ada, Casey Chatfield of Byng, James Alexander of Velma-Alma and Jay Keehn of Madill.

Joseph Wallace of Madill also won a Lt Governor's Scholarship award as well as being inducted into OISHS, while Ada Athlete of the Year Joy Barrick was also inducted into OISHS.

Below is a list of other students attending school in the Chickasaw Nation who were inducted into OISHS.

Ada High School: Leslie Bell, Megan Curry, Lauren Frye, LeeAnn Goheen, Tyler Gower, Kathryn Hamby, Reagan Holland, Randi Howard, Jessica Kinsey, Megan Roberts and Lauren Sutton.

Ada Junior High School: Jennifer Bell, Derrek Bond, Will Hogan and David Scott.

Ardmore High School: Jessica Chaney and Kathryn Colbert.

Bridge Creek High School: Gypsy Hale and Cody Tucker.

Byng High School: Kelly Chatfield, Sam Cooper, Tiffany Cravey, Tori Petere and Preston Petty.

Comanche High School: Chadwick Branch, Christopher Branch and Michael Walden.

Lexington High School: Amber Blanchard and Jacob Reed.

Lindsay High School: Zachary Clary, Brian Herrin, Kacy Mashburn and Joani Springman.

Pauls Valley High School: Jess Lam, IV and Monty Vietzke.

Plainview High School: Allison Biddick, Jonathan Fisher, Julia Roberts and Brett Stidham.

Roff High School: Craig Stewart and Tessa Truett.

Vanoss High School: Jason Barnet, Stephanie Barnett, Nicholas Drannon, Andy Hinkle, Katie Johnson, Erica Sutton and Kailey Ware.

Velma-Alma High School: Kaylee Chandler and Robbie Cox.

Wilson High School: Jordan Hill.

Editor's note: Tribal affiliation is not included with information provided by the Oklahoma Indian Student Honor Society. If your Chickasaw student was inducted into the OISHS, please let us know so we may add his or her name to the list.

1960s sees rise of 'new' Chickasaw self-determination

By RICHARD GREEN
Contributing Writer

Throughout the 1960s, the federal government had assisted Indian tribes in developing greater self-determination. So it was natural that during that decade, sentiment grew within the Five Civilized Tribes to elect their principal leaders. Chickasaw Governor Overton James had favored a tribal gubernatorial election before his appointment by President Kennedy in 1963, often saying that without the people's support he never would have received the appointment.

James continued advocating the idea at every annual meeting; in 1967, he said that proposals to permit the five tribes to have elections were being studied by Congress.¹ In 1970, a bill was introduced in the U.S. Senate and the only two potential obstacles to its enactment, the Department of the Interior and Bureau of the Budget, both had signed on with only minor amendments. Their support was important because the bill mandated the Interior Department's assistance if it was solicited by the tribes and because the tribes could not afford to foot the costs associated with conducting an election.² Public Law 91-495 was enacted on Oct. 22, 1970.

The Chickasaw election procedures and criteria were developed and ratified by a committee appointed by Gov. James. They were similar to U.S. voting requirements except for age (minimum age was 18) and blood quantum (at least one-fourth). Though this minimum blood requirement was also required to receive health care and BIA scholarships, and others of the five tribes also compelled a blood quantum requirement, apparently some charged that the requirement was to preclude descendants of enrolled freedmen from voting. James's supporter and advisory council member, Robert Kingsbery wrote a letter protesting the blood-quantum requirement to BIA commissioner Louis Bruce.³ Subsequently, an assistant secretary of Interior, Harrison Loesch, ruled that residency and the one-fourth blood quantum requirements were contrary to the intent of P.L. 91-495.⁴ Therefore, any lineal descendant of an enrolled Chickasaw could vote. The election was set for July 17.

The race attracted five candidates and was simultaneously momentous and anti-climactic. It was the first election since before statehood, but none of James's opponents posed a meaningful threat. The governor enjoyed the usual advantages of the incumbent, and was charismatic, photogenic and revitalizing the tribe. In the process, he was mainly responsible for many tangible benefits to tribal members, ranging from substantial (the Chickasaw housing program) to helpful (a burial grant and a clothing grant for students pursuing post-high school education). Voters were reminded of these accomplishments through several newspaper ads. In one that ran two days before the election, readers were told that "Overton James Will Continue:

- to preserve the Chickasaw culture.
- to protect Chickasaw tribal lands.
- his aggressive fight for a cash settlement of the Arkansas Riverbed case.
- to take advantage of all federally funded programs for the Chickasaw tribe.
- to provide modern houses for all eligible Chickasaws.
- to stress education for Chickasaw youth."

The other candidates were disadvantaged by being relatively unknown, having little to criticize James for and having no platform of their own.⁵

James won in a landslide, capturing 1,093 of the 1,407 votes cast. The other candidates and their totals were: Bill Goforth, the administrator of Atoka's hospital, 32; Pat Hurley, who worked for an Anadarko hotel, 119; Clarence Cravatt, a teacher at the Ardmore Developmental Center and president of the Carter County Chickasaw Council, 151; Richard Hawkins of Lawton, 12.⁶

Though James said he never thought the outcome was in doubt, Lynn Gibson, his then part-time secretary recalled that he took annual leave from his job at the state education department so that he could campaign during the final two weeks. He campaigned solely on his record; he never mentioned any of his opponents, but privately called them a bunch of "Johnny-come-latelies and opportunists."⁷ After the Chickasaw Election Committee certified that James had won, he was described as "outright jubilant" by a newspaper reporter, who also wrote that the first thing Overton did was call his mother, Vinnie May Humes, in Wapanucka to give her the news.⁸

During the campaign, an unusually lengthy article was published in an Oklahoma City newspaper that could have been titled, "The Chickasaw Manifesto of Overton James." Instead, under the wooden headline, "Indian Pushes for Change," the governor laid out many of his principles, policies and intentions. Since Indians make up only one-half of 1 percent of America's general population, he said, it is evident that society is not going to change for Indians. "We can't make a living by maintaining the Indian way of life. I don't contend that a person should completely give up all of their culture... But they're still going to have to adopt the non-Indian way of life." He also said Indians had to stop blaming someone else for "our unusual situation in society and take advantage of the opportunities."

The governor said the conduit most often is the Bureau of Indian Affairs, currently the "best friend that the Indian has." Though the BIA's goal still should be to put itself out of business, he said, "that's a long way off." Meanwhile, he said the federal government should allow tribes to run more of their own programs. Though tribes will make mistakes, he said, they will learn from them and "at least they can't do any worse than some of our federal agencies have done in the past."⁹

Having no reservations in Oklahoma has been an advantage to Indians, he said. Unemployment, the single greatest problem for Indians, reaches 40 to 50 percent on many reservations while in Oklahoma the rate is 15 percent. "That's still too high considering that the national rate is 5 percent. In dealing with unemployment, he said industry must be induced to come into the Indian areas. And he said factory owners would not be disappointed. Most Indian people, he said, learn quickly and are very skillful, adept at working with their hands and reliable.

Contained within any manifesto are the roots for developing an opposing strategy. Perhaps some of the men who were with Overton James on the night of his election, July 17, were already at work. The returns were announced in Ardmore, and some Chickasaws living there were already complaining among themselves that their city, the biggest in the Chickasaw Nation, was too often overlooked when the governor's victory spoils were being doled out.

By the time James was inaugurated in 1971, the tribe had begun programs in health care and housing, the benefits of which would be expanding throughout the decade. And by investing most of the tribal trust funds locally in certificate of deposits, which paid almost twice the interest of Treasury notes (the BIA's historic method of choice), James was laying the groundwork for tribal economic development. He had already been looking for a tribal business venture and within months would find one, a motel and restaurant in Sulphur that would become the Chickasaw Motor Inn (now Chickasaw Lodge).

Such progress in establishing service and economic development programs was facilitated (or made possible) by the BIA, and though that was the bureau's job, James had been around long enough to remember the bureau's former paternalistic approach to tribal government. To James and the other principal officers of the Five Civilized Tribes in the early 1970s, the BIA was not just some faceless, soulless monolith in Washington. The BIA was represented by area director Virgil Harrington and his staff. Harrington was a man of uncommon integrity and effectiveness and those attributes seemed to rub off on his employees. They could not work magic for the Chickasaws but James knew that any request for help would be treated seriously and promptly, and he knew that Harrington had clout in Washington.

Harrington loved his job, and for the first several years that he was area director in Muskogee, he could not wait to get to work in the morning. But by 1971 his enthusiasm had been tempered by painful to crippling flare-ups of rheumatoid arthritis. This greatly complicated his job because a substantial part of it, Harrington believed, involved being at Indian meetings he was invited to attend. "My arthritis got so bad that my wife was driving me to the meetings," Harrington said. Most people in his position would have sent a staffer to these meetings, but he said, "If they invited me, then I was obliged to be there if my schedule permitted."¹⁰

In view of their faith in Harrington and the BIA, it was not surprising that James and the other leaders of the Five Civilized Tribes condemned the militant tactics of groups such as the American Indian Movement (AIM), which was founded during the maelstrom of 1968. Several confrontational events received national publicity. One was the Indian takeover of Alcatraz Island in 1969. Another was the week-long occupation of the BIA building in Washington, D.C. by Indian militants organized by AIM in November 1972. Caravans of Indians had converged on Washington (called the Trail of Broken Treaties) to present their grievances and demand action. When top federal officials refused to negotiate with the leaders, violence broke out and the protesters seized control of the BIA building.¹¹ They caused an estimated $2.2 million of damage to the BIA building and its contents during the week-long occupation. Generally, these were non-establishment Indians, poor, unskilled, urban, unassimilated into white society and not eligible for government assistance because they did not live on reservations or were not represented by influential tribal leaders like Overton James.¹²

In fact, the two factions had been in conflict for some time.

Pediatric Clinic; Anne Rowe, L.P.N. Durant Clinic; and Debbie Sanford, R.N. Emergency Department.

The Chickasaw Nation Health System (CNHS) recognized the hard work and dedication of nurses during National Nurses Week, celebrated May 6 through 12.

CNHS honored nurses during an awards presentation May 11. During the ceremony, the co-winners of the 2003 Nurse of the Year were announced. The 2003 Inpatient Nurse of the Year was awarded to Kelli Ludlow, R.N., of the Medical Surgical Unit. Bobby Saunkeah, R.N., of the Diabetes Center, was recognized as the 2003 Outpatient Nurse of the Year.

"We congratulate and recognize these two outstanding nurses for their dedication and commitment to the well-being and health of our people," Chickasaw Nation Governor Bill Anoatubby said. "We're extremely thankful for their devotion to the Chickasaw Nation Health System."

Each year nurses are nominated for Nurse of the Year honors by their peers. This year nominees for the award included: Ludlow; Saunkeah; Sharon West, L.P.N. Tishomingo Clinic; Natasha Scott, R.N. Medical Surgical Unit; Virgie Garrett, L.P.N. Same Day Clinic; Martha Stonecipher, R.N. House Supervisor; Sabrina Vaughn, L.P.N. Family Practice Clinic; Becky Bennett, R.N. Women's Clinic; Pam Hisaw, L.P.N. Geriatric Clinic; Samantha Gross, R.N. Specialty Clinic.

"We have an excellent team of nurses in the Chickasaw Nation Health System and for that we're very grateful," Gov. Anoatubby said. "We appreciate the work they do helping Native Americans and their families."

During the ceremony, Health Systems Administrator Bill Lance told the nurses, "Knowing that you give the best nursing care possible to each and every patient makes us all very proud."

While handing out the Co-Nurse of the Year plaques, Patient Services Director Heather Summers said Ludlow is a "very solution orientated nurse who goes above and beyond her call of duty to care for our patients and their families."

She is characterized as a compassionate and hardworking nurse who keeps a positive, cheerful attitude no matter what situation arises, Summers said.

Likewise, Summers said improving patient care is Co-Nurse of the Year Saunkeah's first priority. "He takes pride in improving patient care, education and prevention."

Judy Shulanberger, who works in the Carl Albert Hospital surgical unit, attends the Nurses Appreciation Luncheon on May 11. Shulanberger is served by First National Bank and Trust Company of Ada employees, Janet Wilburn, Joyce Collings, Vicky Petete, Bruce James and Carol Voyles. "We appreciate all you do," bank employees told the nurses.

Saunkeah is described as kind, considerate and caring when helping patients. He is a positive and competent leader who is dedicated to doing the best job possible, Summers said.

During National Nurses Week celebrations, nurses at the Carl Albert Indian Hospital (CAIH) were also treated to a hamburger luncheon provided by the First National Bank and Trust Company of Ada.

This year's theme for National Nurses Week was "Nurses: Your Voice, Your Health, Your Life." The week is celebrated annually and ends on May 12, Florence Nightingale's birthday, the founder of nursing as a modern profession.

Injury prevention conference explores safety issues

SULPHUR, Okla. – The fourth annual Chickasaw Nation Injury Prevention Conference was conducted April 28 through 30 at the Chickasaw Motor Lodge in Sulphur.

“The conference helps educate people and helps to save lives,” Brenda Hughes, injury prevention committee chairperson, said. This year’s conference, she said, was a success.

Nearly 40 people attended the conference including community health representatives (CHRs), child development and Head Start workers, as well as individuals with other occupational backgrounds.

During the three-day training, conference goers attended sessions discussing the importance of data collection; poison control; exercising with Dynabands; foster care and adoption; child abuse reporting and prevention; slips, trips and falls; back injury prevention; home safety checks; occupational safety; and snake awareness and safety.

Woody Hansen, president of the Oklahoma Area Association of Community Health Representatives, educates Lou Perry, community health representative, and others about snake awareness and safety at the annual Injury Prevention Conference.

Money raised from the conference registration fees will go back into communities to help assist those in need of medical supplies or to purchase other injury prevention materials.

Chickasaw Nation hosts annual Elders' Conference

LAKE TEXOMA – Elders from across the Chickasaw Nation attended the 2004 Elders' Conference May 19 and 20 at Lake Texoma.

Elders attended meetings discussing scams perpetrated on the elderly; the importance of arts and humanities to the Chickasaw Nation; Chickasaw Nation Cultural Center; Medicare-approved drug discount cards; National Indian Council on Aging Conference; arthritis; Caring Hearts of Oklahoma; diabetic self-management; and traditional storytelling.

Sgt. Ed Hardwood of the Ardmore Police Department warned the elders about identify and mail theft, as well as home repair scams.

“Scams can be pretty devastating for elderly folks, especially those on a fixed income,” he said.

During the conference, elders also sang, enjoyed music, played games, and remembered seniors who have passed away during the last year.

Carl Albert blood drive

Kathy Murray, of the Oklahoma Blood Institute, prepares the arm of Vicki Osborne for a blood donation. Osborne, a Carl Albert Hospital lab employee, spent a portion of her lunch break donating blood. Carl Albert hosted the blood drive on May 7. With a blood shortage, the Oklahoma Blood Institute and Carl Albert were excited about the donations they received at the drive. Jim Thomas, blood program consultant for the East Central Oklahoma Institute, said Carl Albert “always has a good, solid drive.”

AGENDA ITEM #7

NEW BUSINESS (Comments from Citizens)

Comments by Lucy Wiley

Ms. Wiley made comments regarding citizens living outside the Chickasaw Nation not being able to benefit from the services offered by the Nation.

Sue Simmons voiced displeasure of her comments being edited in the September 19, 2003 Legislative Session minutes.

James Humes announced he was starting a not-for-profit organization called Urban American Indian League (UAIL), and that there would be more in attendance at the session meetings if they were held on Saturday. He stated that the people wanted more input in the decisions that were made by the Legislature.

Rebecca Travis commented on health care issues her family was facing. She asked that the health care needs of those that live outside the Nation be considered.

Betty Kemp announced she was the newly elected chair for the Purcell Chickasaw Community Council and she invited all to attend their meetings. She also thanked the Governor for declining the expenditure on his behalf.

Juanita Monroe voiced her concern of the medical needs of the people. She asked that the Chickasaw people be taken care of.

Bill Bomboy thanked the Legislature for the building in Oklahoma City where they held their community council meetings.

Sara Lea thanked the legislators for attending the Enos monthly community council meetings. She announced they were having a Music Festival on May 15 at the Enos Community Center and invited everyone to attend.

Carolee Maxwell stated she was in full support of those that have stood up and asked for health care. She felt the Chickasaw Nation could have state of the art health programs.

Juanita Tate encouraged the legislature to listen to the people and let the people have input. She voiced her displeasure of the consideration of acquiring property for the Governor. She asked the Legislature to consider renovating the Carter site for the elders.

Mike Watson made comments on the health care service. He asked for more tutors in the public schools, and for a directory assistance that gives guidelines to help citizens determine if they qualify for service programs.

Evonna Cannon commented on accountability of the Legislature and the newspaper needing information which would be useful to citizens living outside the Nation.

Kathleen Stoner voiced problems she experienced with the Health Care System.

David Brown made comments on Health Care Services.

Mrs. Alexander stated she appreciated the comments that were made.

Mrs. Hartman thanked the citizens for their comments and she shared their concerns regarding health care.

Mrs. Green stated she welcomed the comments made, and as chairman of the Health Care committee she would take the health care questions to the hospital administrator.

Mr. Watson thanked the Legislators for providing programs to help the people get their medications.

For You.....

The Chickasaw Nation Division of Housing offers you a full range of home loan products in addition to the Chuka Chukmasi Home Loan Program.

Did you know that on virtually every kind of loan the seller can pay part of your closing cost? Has anyone taken the time to sit down with you and explain the process from start to finish or exactly what your closing costs actually are? Would you like personal, one on one attention to every detail?

Did you know that the Chickasaw Nation Division of Housing is your ONLY source for the Chuka Chukmasi Home Loan? HOWEVER, if you are Native American, and live in the Chickasaw Nation service area, we also have a loan product for you!

Chuka Chukmasi

For Chickasaws ANYWHERE IN THE CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES! Down payment and closing cost assistance is available. Homebuyer education is required!

HUD 184

Available to any Tribe living in the Chickasaw Nation service area. This is a Native American loan and allows part of the closing costs to be financed into the loan. Borrowers need 2-3% of the purchase price of their own funds. These may be gifted funds or even a grant from their own tribe. No second mortgages are allowed on this loan. Homebuyer education is required!

MyCommunityMortgage

This is community homebuyer loan. While there are income guidelines in certain areas, there are no income guidelines in underserved, low and moderate income or minority census tracts and central cities. Borrower investment can be as little as $500 and community seconds are allowable as a source of funds for closing costs. Homebuyer education is required.

Royce Edward Wilkins

Royce Edward Wilkins, 80, of Kiowa, Okla., died February 27, 2004 at McAlester Regional Health Center, McAlester, Okla.

He was born July 24, 1923 at Pittsburg, Okla., to Clyde Delbert Wilkins and Besse Ann Godfrey Wilkins.

He grew up in Pittsburg County and graduated from Kiowa High School.

He married Inez Marie Derryberry on August 10, 1940 in Eufaula, Okla. He began working at a young age for Montgomery Ward in McAlester, then went to work for Halliburton, which took he and his family to Pauls Valley, Okla., and on to Montana and North Dakota. Later he moved his family to Alaska, driving up the Alcan Highway arriving in time to celebrate Alaska's statehood. In Anchorage he went to work for the Department of Fish and Wildlife. They remained there for a number of years before returning to Kiowa. He began work at the Army Ammunition Plant where he eventually retired.

He loved to travel and he enjoyed raising a big garden which he shared with family and friends.

He was a member of the Wardville Baptist Church.

He is preceded in death by his parents; and a sister, Joanne Caroline Wilkins.

He is survived by his wife, Inez, of the home; daughters and son-in-law, Parthenia Ann and John Sidney Doyle, Kiowa, Janyas Hess Shreidi, Bartlesville, Okla.; a son, Garry Royce Wilkins, Kiowa; grandchildren, Jonna Zachary, Lance Hess, Jeremy Doyle and Trent Doyle, of Kiowa, Royce Wilkins, McAlester, Scott Hess, Bartlesville, Clyde Wilkins, Lawton, Christa Hesson, Owasso, Nancy Wilkins, Denison, Texas, Thomas Wilkins, Ozark, Mo., Jeb Wilkins and Rod Wilkins, Gainesville, Texas; 15 great-grandchildren; one great-great-grandchild; two brothers and sisters-in-law, Joe and Mary Wilkins, and Gayler and Pat Wilkins, all of Kiowa.

Funeral services were March 1, 2004 at the Wardville Baptist Church with Brother John Grubbs officiating. Interment followed in the Wardville Cemetery. Services were under the direction of Brown's Funeral Home, Atoka, Okla.

Pallbearers were David Rudrow, James Prather, James Thompson, Mike Haynes, Kenny Maxwell and Terry Ellis. Honorary pallbearers were Gene Benito and Jim Calvin.

Harrison Burris

Harrison Burris, 79, of Mill Creek, Okla., died January 17, 2004 in Oklahoma City.

Services were January 19, 2004 with the Rev. Kurt Jackson officiating. Interment was in Tishomingo Cemetery, Tishomingo, Okla., with military honors provided by VFW Post 4869 and American Legion Post 164 both of Tishomingo.

Mr. Burris was born June 4, 1924 to Hindman H. and Minnabel (Colbert) Burris in Tishomingo.

He graduated from Tishomingo High School and later served in the U.S. Army Air Corps, retiring with 23 years of service. Following his retirement he worked at various jobs until declining health required that he move into the Veterans Center in Ardmore in 1999.

He was preceded in death by his parents and two brothers, William C. "Bill" Burris and Colbert Burris.

He is survived by three sons, Scott Burris and Hindman H. Burris, IV, both of Michigan, and Dariel Burris, serving with the U.S. Marine Corps in Japan; a daughter, Melissa Stevens, Sulphur, Okla.; five sisters, Caroline Curry, Pat McCollom and Betty Fowler, of Tishomingo, and Rose Mary Clark and Annabel Easterwood, of Spring, Texas; and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Services were directed by Clark Funeral Service.

Pamela Beck

Services for Pamela Beck, 54, were May 8, 2004 at the Temple of God Church, Connerville, Okla., with the Revs. Larry Harrison and Tony Poe officiating. Burial followed in Pontotoc Cemetery, Pontotoc, Okla.

Mrs. Beck died May 5, 2004 at a local hospital. She was born Feb. 19, 1950 at Talihina, Okla., to Isaac and Esterline Jefferson Tyson. She attended Carter Seminary and Pittman Business College, Dallas.

She married Jerry Anthony Beck on March 30, 1988 in Gainesville, Texas. She was a homemaker and a licensed minister of the United Tribes for Christ Fellowship in Oklahoma City.

She came to the area in 1994 from Tishomingo, Okla.

She was preceded in death by her parents Isaac and Esterline Tyson; and two brothers, Vernon Leroy Tyson and Robert Earle Tyson.

She is survived by her husband, Jerry Anthony Beck, of the home; three daughters, Cheryl Campbell, Achille, Okla., and Karen Wright and Lisa Cummins, of Ada, Okla.; two sons, Tracy Lewis, Connerville, and Anthony Sanchez, Salinas, Calif.; five sisters, Ramona James,

Ada, Dorothy Baken, Latta, Okla., Hazel James, White River, Ariz., Peggy Immohotichy, Oklahoma City, and Marcella Tyson, Talihina; three brothers, Tony Tyson, Heavener, Okla., Curtis Tyson, Poteau, Okla., and Harold Tyson, Hominy, Okla.; and 16 grandchildren;

Bearers were Jeffery Lewis, Chris Cummins, Stacy Tyson, Allen Beck, Tommy Baken and Gabe Baken.

Two months before, "about 40 angry Indians invaded" James's office at the state Department of Education, tore up papers on his desk and tried to force him to resign for allegedly misusing federal school funds for Indians. Some of the Indians went through files; others were pictured in The Daily Oklahoman the next morning surrounding James, sitting at his desk fielding "hostile questions and accusations." One of the invaders, Carter Camp, called the BIA in Washington to ask that all special Indian funds be stopped until an investigation could be made. Another man, Cornell Tahdooahnippah, called James the Indians' No. 1 enemy and repeatedly said: "We will see you out."¹³

James replied that his office had no police power over individual school districts but that he wanted to do whatever he could to see that the funds were spent properly. He pointed out that through his office's efforts annual funding had increased in five years from $400,000 to about $2 million. Later, after the group had departed, James made two rueful observations. None of the protestors had aired their grievances with him before that day. And the group's demonstration had lasted precisely as long as TV cameras were present. "They milled around out in the hall until a TV reporter arrived and then they came storming in."¹⁴ When he was interviewed as an Oklahoma tribal leader for his reaction to the Indian occupation of the BIA building, he said, "I doubt very much they will get anywhere with this type of action."¹⁵

Actually, this type of action was anathema to James. He had been schooled in political leadership by the Inter-Tribal Council and in his first elected term as governor from 1971-75, he was determined to demonstrate that leadership for the benefit of the tribe in social service programs and economic development programs.
